

Elisé Wamen
AStA-Referent
Internationales
Integrationspreis-
Träger

What does engagement at KIT and beyond mean to you?

For me, the importance of volunteering lies in the fact that I can stand up for the interests of disadvantaged groups both in the city and at KIT.

What advantages do you see for yourself, KIT and others in your commitment?

In addition to the great fun and added value for fellow humans that engagement can bring, it also brings with it a cosmopolitanism, respect and solidarity.

How did you get involved?

Even in my country of origin, Cameroon, I always represented the interests of underrepresented groups.

At KIT it was obvious to me that international students and students with a migration background were not being heard within the student body and it was very important for me to create a voice for them.

What is missing at KIT and in general for more student engagement?

While students lack interest to get involved and participate, there is also a lack of appreciation for it within KIT.