

Christina Reichinger

she.codes by tec
TU München

What does student engagement mean to you?

Being able to contribute your own ideas and make a lasting difference, as well as meeting great and interesting people and growing together.

What advantages do you see for yourself, your fellow students, the university and society in your student involvement?

I hope I can inspire other fellow students to get involved as well and, especially at she.codes by TEC, set an example in society for more diversity in STEM and promoting and encouraging young girls for technology.

How did you get involved?

The topic of empowering women in STEM is very important to me personally. In addition, I generally find that student involvement and the valuable experiences you gain from it are very enriching.

What are the most decisive/important/beautiful aspects of your engagement for you?

Positive feedback and enthusiasm from the girls at workshops and sharing wonderful experiences with like-minded people within the association.